VIGO WHEAT

VIGO WHEAT, the latest Purdue-Indiana release is a new soft red winter wheat whose merits include high yield, superior bushel weight of grain and resistance to leaf rust and mosaic diseases.

VIGO WHEAT is a medium season, beardless, white chaff variety with a strong erect straw, excellent standing ability, smooth kernels of good test weight.

Much of the wheat in Illinois and Missouri has become mixed, with the result that many farmers in the last few years have been penalized through discounts applied on inferior wheat. VIGO WHEAT has given excellent results in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and many other states and we, therefore, suggest that you make every effort to let farmers in your community try this great wheat.
